MEMORANDUM FOR: Admiral Turner

The attached study of intelligence organization may be of interest to you. It was prepared in the fall of 1975 at Bill Colby's request by a group of six CIA officers. Our report has no official standing, but it served to define the issues for the Presidential review of intelligence organization and management that culminated in E.O. 11905. I would recommend your reading Parts I and II and Part III through Page 66. The Options themselves are pretty well overtaken by the executive order and the annexes are of less importance and uneven quality. I would particularly invite your attention to Pages 21 to 33, which deal with the DCI's relationships with the Department of Defense and Pages 75 to 77, which suggest one approach to improving this relationship.

Richard Lehman
Deputy to the DCI for National Intelligence
